MORE LABOR TROUBLES.

The Bookbinders and Printers of Berlin Lead Another Immense Demonstration.

BERLIN, March 7.—Several arrests were made today of persons who were engaged in yesterday's disturbances at Leipsic. Great discontent prevails among the working classes of that city, especially those engaged in wool spinning, although the leaders in Sunday's attempted outbreak are said to have been employes of the great Liepsic publishing houses. The workingmen in the book business have for a long time been dissatisfied with wages and treatment, and as they are generally more intelligent and better informed than the tradesmen in other lines, they are usually looked up to as leaders in any popular movement. The socialist element is very strong among them, and they are continually agitating more or less actively, in favor of the socialist party. There are also in Liepsic a good number of extremists, who look to solution as the only remedy for popular wrongs. Of the crowd that gathered in the market place the majority were wool spinners, led by printers and book binders. They were not at first interferred with, but when one of the speakers spoke of royalty as bearing down too heavily on the people and therefore not to be tolerated the police thought it time for action. They marched in force to the meeting place and forced the crowd back without having to use their weapons. The workingmen seemed at first stubborn and apparently inclined to resist, but concluded to retire without violence. Today the police are out in strong force and the streets are quiet.

CRIME AND CRIMINALS.

Mary Himpler, Dr. Scudder and Dr. Peck Play Leading Roles.

NEW YORK, March 7.—William McGinn was fatally stabbed last night by Mary Himpler, in Brooklyn. The two were visiting at the house of Mrs. Mary Wiegand, No. 165 Siegel street, where it is said a quarrel began. Miss Himpler seized a big knife and drove the blade through McGinn's breast. The injured man was taken to a hospital where he died shortly after his arrival. Miss Himpler, who is twenty three years old, was arrested. She refused to make a statement.

CHICAGO, March 7.—Dr. Henry M. Scudder, accused of the murder of Mrs. A. H. Dunton, his mother-in-law, attempted to kill a fellow patient in the detention hospital yesterday afternoon. The two patients had been tramping through the corridor, as they had done all day. Dr. Scudder entered his cell, grasped a chair, and, as his victim passed the cell door, hit him on the head with it. Before he could repeat the blow the attendants came to the rescue, and after a fierce struggle the doctor was overcome and placed in irons. He accuses his fellow patient of being in league with his wife to convict him.

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 7.—Dr. M. W. Peck, of Chattahooche county, is in jail charged with the murder of M. A. Thomas, a neighbor. The men quarreled on Tuesday of last week about a fence which separated their properties. Thomas finally started toward the doctor with an open knife, but Peck was too quick for him, drew a pistol and shot him in the right side. While awaiting the arrival of the physicians Dr. Peck gave Thomas medical attendance. When Thomas was removed to his home he refused the aid of the other physicians that had been summoned, expressing more confidence in the skill of his assailant. Peck worked hard to save Thomas' life but failed, and the latter died yesterday.

A BRUTAL AFFAIR.

A Bloody Fight Between O'Donnell and Magner Given to the Latter.

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, Feb. 7.—Over two thousand people crossed the poontoon bridge yesterday afternoon to witness the light weight fight between Billy O'Donnell, of St. Paul, and Patsy Magner, of Yankton, the former fought at 132 pounds, and the latter at 122. O'Donnell was very cautious in the first six rounds, but after that he had everything his own way. Round after round he rained blows on Magner's face, cutting it at nearly every blow, till the eighteenth round, when Magner received twelve stinging blows in the face and chest, which left him weak and groggy. In the nineteenth round Magner had hardly come to the scratch when he was knocked insensible by a blow in the neck, but as he hung over the ropes O'Donnell struck him again, whereupon the fight was given to Magner on a foul. A riot ensued, but the referee managed to make his escape.

Kentucky Lotteries.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 7.—Attorney General Hendrick announced last night that quo warranto proceedings would be instituted against the Kentucky lotteries today. The headquarters and main offices are in this city, and the officers would be arrested today. This is in accordance with a law just passed by the legislature. The charters have been declared repealed and void.

NEW STEEL CRUISERS

To Prevent the Illegal Use of Nets in the Northern Lakes.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 7.—Two new light steel revenue cutters are about to be placed on the upper lakes by the Dominion government for the protection of fisheries in those waters from depletion by the use of gill and pound nets, both of which are illegal. It was suggested that the old vessels should be removed and replaced by new boats of light draught and built for speed. One of the new boats will be placed on Lake Superior and the other on Lake Huron, the old boats on those lakes being commissioned for coast service on the gulf of St. Lawrence for preventive work in connection with smuggling by French men from the Miquilon and other islands. There will be no violation of old treaties in any way.

THE OSBORNE CASE.

Sir Charles Hall Requests the Jury to Return a True Bill Against the Fair Perjurer.

LONDON, March 7.—The March sessions of the central criminal court, more familiarly known as the Old Baily, opened today. The recorder for London, Sir Charles Hall, made an exhaustive charge to the grand jury, referring to the most important cases which are fixed for hearing at the present sessions. He dealt among others with the case of Mrs. Ethel Osborne, who now awaits her trial for perjury and larceny. He gave the facts as already known, telling the jury they had no option but to return a true bill against her. The recorder charged strongly against Moreland, the Oxford man accused of blackmailing Earl Russell and other noblemen by getting up a correspondence between them and an imaginary lovely widow, whom they never had the satisfaction of meeting, but who appears to have been represented by the baldheaded, very prepossing Moreland himself.

THE MONTAGU CASE.

DUBLIN, March 7.—The case of Mrs. Ann Margaret Montagu, daughter-in-law of Lord Montagu, accused of causing the death of her infant daughter by cruel and inhuman punishment, has been removed for trial to Dublin. This has been done in deference to a feeling that, as a convert to the Catholic from the Protestant religion she could not get justice in the county Deery, where the alleged crime was committed, and where the Orange element is very strong. The Rev. Father MacDonald, priest of the parish of Coleraine, asserted from the pulpit that Mrs Montagu was being persecuted on account of her change of faith, and that the Protestant local authorities were determined to punish her, irrespective of the merits of the charge and the evidence in support of it. This allegation of the priest was met by indignant denial, but it attracted such wide attention, and aroused such feeling that the government felt that the case could not have an unprejudiced hearing in Derry. Hence the decision to remove it to Dublin, where the case will come up at the next assizes.

FATAL COLLISION.

Two Baltimore and Ohio Trainmen Killed and Two Injured.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 7. The Chicago express, which left Camden station at 7:15 last night, collided at 8:35 p. m. with an extra freight train bound east at Rockville. Fireman Buckaloo, of Cranberry, and Brakeman Featers, of Martinsburg, W. Va., were killed and Engineer Peters, of the express, and an express messenger slightly injured. No passengers were hurt. Two sleepers were slightly damaged. The accident was caused by the freight leaving the siding.

Declared Off.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 7.—The fact was developed yesterday that the proposed fight between Corbett and Choyinski is off. Their backers, Phil Dwyer and Bud Renaud, by mutual agreement today resolved to cancel the match and the money was drawn. This was expected, however, as nothing has been heard from Corbett in regard to the match, though Dwyer telegraphed to him as soon as the money was put up.

A Formal Marriage.

NEW YORK, March 7.—Burton C. Webster, the slayer of Broker Goodwin, and Eveylen Granville who has been referred to as Webster's "common law wife," have had the common law contract between them supplemented by a formal marriage ceremony. The marriage took place on Washington's birthday, but the fact only leaked out yesterday.

Hotels Burned.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 7.—The Ocean and beach hotels and three cottages at Tybees beach, twenty miles from Savannah, burned at 11 o'clock last night. Estimated loss, $40,000; insurance unknown. The fire started in the Beach house and is believed to be of incendiary origin.

A Vein of Ore.

A sturgeon weighing 697 pounds, was caught on the coast of Washington the other day.

CRAZED BY GRIEF.

Mrs. Traynor Found in a Coal Mine Singing Lovingly to Her Dead Husband.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 7.—John Traynor, of Coal Run, in this county, a fire boss, entered the mine, where he worked Friday, as was his custom, to examine the chambers and test the gas. He did not return and his young wife became alarmed at his absence. A party was organized, which searched the mine, but failed to find him. The wife then became distracted and it was feared for a time that she would go mad. The next morning Mrs. Traynor was missing. Dilligent search in the village failed to reveal any trace of her, and it was generally supposed that the loss of her husband had unbalanced her mind and she had wandered to the mountains. A party of mine surveyors who were examining some old workings Saturday afternoon entered an old breast close to the manway, which forms the second opening of the mine. They heard the sound of a human voice in the darkness some distance beyond. They listened intently and were startled to recognize the voice of a woman crooning softly the words of a love song. They crawled hastily over the loose coal to the place from where the voice proceeded. Flashing their lamps about, the light soon fell upon the face of a wild eyed woman holding in her her lap, the hand of a man. She swayed gently from side to side while she sang. Soon it was seen that it was Mrs. Traynor. The men lifted the poor woman. She gave an outcry and fainted. She was taken to the surface and carried to her home. The body of the husband was brought there later. The wife is now insane. It is supposed that when she disappeared she made directly for the manhole and stumbled across the body of her husband, who had been caught by the fall of top coal on his way out.

Charles Frohman's brilliant comedy success, "Jane," will occupy the boards of the Masonic Temple this evening. The company presenting "Jane" is one of great merit, as the name of "Frohman" would suggest. He has an enviable reputation for handling only the most legitimate attractions, and "Jane" is no exception to this rule. Adapted from the French, "Jane" possesses all the elements of bright, sparkling wit and refined humor always found in those successes produced in the gay capital, and "Jane" has the advantage over the original that there is no risque situations or anything in the way of double entendres.

MRS. MINNIE PLATTE.

Who Figured in a Divorce Case, Arrested for Attempted Murder.

BROOKLYN, March 7.—Mrs. Minnie Platte was arrested last evening, charged by her husband, W. H. Platte, a retired naval engineer, with attempting to shoot him when they met on the street. She claimed that a friend of Platte's pulled a pistol out of her (Mrs. Platte's) pocket and then called a policeman and had her arrested. She says Platte has been trying to get her into trouble ever since he failed to get a divorce from her for alleged adultery with a son of ex-Governor Waller, of Connecticut.

Mrs. Platte was arraigned this morning before Justice Walsh on a charge of attempting to shoot her husband. The complainant failing to appear, she was discharged.

IT LOOKS SERIOUS.

The Shooting of Banker Robinson in Japan Threatens Trouble Between the United States and England.

LONDON, March 7.—A dispatch from Yokohama says that a serious division of feeling has arisen between the English and American colonies over the shooting of George Gower Robinson, the English broker, by Lieut. J. H. Hetherington, of the United States navy. Under the existing treaties with Japan, European countries and the United States have extra-territorial jurisdiction over criminals belonging to their respective nationalities. This jurisdiction Japan has for some time labored to abolish, but without success, as foreigners claim that they are not sufficiently convinced that Japanese justice is fitted for dealing with civilized people. The case of Lieutenant Hetherington, of course, comes under American jurisdiction, as he is the person accused and he will be tried by the American consulor court, but the English are watching the case very jealously and should Hetherington be acquitted or let off with a light penalty there will probably, judging from existing feeling, be reprisals in some form. Robinson was very popular among the English colony and his friends claim that there was no good cause or excuse for Hetherington taking the law in his own hands. The case has already led to very strained relations between English and American society in Japan and some of the leading English have given the cut direct to their American acquaintances especially of the official class. As English influences are predominant in Japan, the situation also effects unfavorably American relations with the natives. Hetherington's friends are making efforts to secure evidence that will place him right in the eyes of the foreign element and give reason for his acquittal that both the Americans and English will regard as satisfactory. They hope to prove that Robinson boasted of his conquests of the other sex, and that Mrs Hetherington was not the only victim of his wiles, and that the circumstances under which Lieutenant Hetherington took the life of the alleged seducer of his wife would have justified any husband in acting as he did. On the other hand Robinson's ante-mortem statement denying that he had been guilty of any wrong, and asserting that he had only flirted with Mrs. Hetherington has many believers, and will, it is claimed, tell strongly against Hetherington on his trial. The case is a most embarrassing one for the consular court, whose duties are usually confined to complaints against or by seamen or occasional acts of wrongdoing by cosmopolitan vagrants. It is embarrassing because the Japanese will watch it narrowly as a specimen of foreign justice, which they are now losing no opportunity to criticise. The Japanese are deeply aggrieved because America and England have not consented to accept Japanese jurisdiction for their subjects, and they will, therefore, be delighted to be able to point to an alleged failure of justice.

RIOT AND MURDER.

One Pole Killed and Three Wounded by Drunken Negroes.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., March 7.—Murder and riot ran loose in the tunnel shanties near shaft No. 2 last night, and this morning one man dead and four badly injured are evidence of the fierceness of the fight. The combatants were three negroes and some Poles. The latter had a keg of beer and locked themselves in their shanty, refusing the negroes admittance to partake of the enjoyment. The negroes finally broke in the window, stormed the place with revolvers drawn and firing frequent shots. One Pollack was instantly killed, another shot in the cheek, the bullet lodging in his brain. He will die. Three others were shot in the breast and neck and quite seriously injured. The dead man is named John Risco and the other fatally injured Ignatius Dongoso. The other three are Tony Hayes, Tony Malcrash and Joe Smith. The three colored men were arrested while making for the depot. They are Sam Barker, Wm. Chambers and Chas. Kelly. Chambers and Kelly charge Barker with the shooting.

DR. LAUBACH DEAD!

Another Prominent Citizen and Eminent Physician Passes Suddenly Away—Other Deaths and Funerals.

Dr. A. J. Laubach, one of the most prominent physicians of this city, died at his residence, 127 East Washington street, Sunday at 2:45 p. m., after a brief illness. His death was due to hemorrhage of the stomach, superinduced by grip, of which he was a sufferer about a year ago.

The announcement of Dr. Laubach's death is as sudden as it is sad. But a few days ago he was pursuing his practice, but against the wishes of his family and friends who knew he had not recovered his robust health after a previous attack of the same trouble that took away his life. But Dr. Laubach was not the man to shirk what he felt was his duty, and convinced that he should see his patients, he probably exposed himself by returning to his professional duties before he was physically able to do so. In the death of Dr. Laubach this community has much to mourn. He was a prominent citizen, an eminent physician, and a staunch friend. In the home circle, which was nearest and dearest to him, he was always happiest. Professionally he ranked high and socially he had that warm, genial disposition that makes true and lasting friends. The surviving members of the immediate family are the widow and four children, as follows: Gertrude, Blanche and Lulu, and Howard, who is a West Point cadet.

The interment of the remains of Dr. A. J. Laubach will be at Allentown, Pa., his old home. In consequence of the indisposition of his daughters, Gertrude and Lulu, there will be no funeral services held in this city, but the friends of the deceased and of the family who may desire to do so, are requested to call at the residence tomorrow, any time between 10 o'clock, a. m. and 1 p. m. The remains will be taken east on the Keystone express, which leaves this city tomorrow at 2.45 p. m. The pallbearers will be Dr. McClausland and Dr. McOscar, representing the medical profession; Mr. J. B. Harper and Capt. J. B. White, representing the Loyal Legion, and the deceased's close friend and neighbor, Judge Edward O'Rourke.

A. J. Laubach was born in Northampton county, Pa., December 9, 1844. He received his early education in the district schools, Weaversville academy and Freeland seminary. In August, 1862, he enlisted in Company D, 153d Pennsylvania regiment, as a private, but was at once promoted second sergeant and at the battle of Chancellorsville was promoted to first sergeant. At Gettysburg he was wounded, captured and paroled, and exchanged in September following. He took up the study of medicine on his return home, but in August, 1864, was appointed by Governor Curtin, captain of Company F, two hundred and second Pennsylvania regiment. He commanded his company at the battle of Salem, Va., and after Lee's surrender he was sent to Heckscherville, Penn., to quell the riots in that vicinity. He was mustered out September 1865, and the next month entered the medical department of the university of Pennsylvania and in May, 1866, entered the Long Island medical hospital college, where he was graduated the following June. For four months following he took private instruction from Prof. Austin Flint, at Bellevue medical college and in March, 1867, was graduated by the medical department of the university of Pennsylvania. He began practice at Kreidersville, Penn., removed to Allentown in 1869 and in 1872-3 practiced in Philadelphia and studied further in the university. After returning to Allentown, he was in January, 1875, appointed acting assistant surgeon, United States, America, and served in the department of Dakota until July 10, 1878, when he resigned and established himself at Fort Wayne. He was a prominent citizen, a comrade of the G. A. R. and ex-president of the Morton club.

In 1852 he was married at St Paul's Lutheran church, in this city, to Miss Mary Schael, who died six years after their marriage. In 1859 he was married to Miss Eliza Hoffer, who survives him. A GRIEF LADEN MESSAGE

Conveys the News of Edgerton Alvord's Death, at School.

Edgerton Alvord, the eighteen year old son of Mrs Frances D. Alvord, of 154 West Berry street, this city, recently went to New Haven, Conn., near which place he entered a school for a preparatory course to fit himself for Harvard or Yale. Yesterday a message conveyed to this city the sad news of the young man's death at that place. He died of pneumonia after a brief illness.

Edgerton was a brilliant young man and was starting out in the right course to make a noble and worthy man. He was the grandson of Hon. A. P. Edgerton. The deceased had many friends here who will mourn his loss, and his mother whose pride and hope he was, will have widespread sympathy in her bereavement. The remains will be shipped to Brooklyn, N. Y., where the interment will take place in Greenwood cemetery Wednesday afternoon.

THE numerous accidents which befall people who confide in the happy-go-lucky ministrations of boy drug clerks ought to serve as warnings, but they do not. Some additional legislation seems needed before the public can feel certain that no ignoramus or person of immature judgment will be found in the position of a dispensing clerk. Children cannot be allowed to clerk.

BOLD, BAD BURGLARS.

John Dougall's Experience With an Early Morning Visitor—Other Cases.

It isn't often that a journalist of one paper will go out of his way to furnish a "scoop" for his cotemporaries, but that is what John Dougall, city editor of the Journal did early Sunday morning. When Mr Dougall had retired from his duties at the Journal office about 3 a. m. he proceeded straightway to his home, 323 East Wayne street, where he divested his scalloped limbs of their covering and donned his night shirt. The young journalist had not been in bed long enough for his accustomed snore to develop to its full eloquence of tone when he heard a noise in the hall. John has a very keen scent and he smelt burglars. Just then some one brushed by him. He grabbed for the party, in the darkness, not knowing who it was, and soon found himself in close and unfriendly communication with a veritable burglar. A short struggle brought both to the head of the stairs and a second later both fell down stairs. A confederate at the hall door opened it and the newspaper man's friend unloosing himself from his friend's unfriendly grasp dashed through the door and escaped. On repairing to John's bed room it was found that the burglar had emptied the entire contents of the dressing case on the floor, while his gold watch and chain were lying on a rug near the door. Nothing of value was missed.

A tattered night shirt and a pair of badly scratched arms bear testimony that Mr. Dougall's encounter with a burglar had a genuine thrill in it.

OTHER ATTEMPTS.

Sunday morning burglars tried to effect an entrance into the residences of G. W. Pixley, 76 West Wayne street, L. J. Baldwin, corner of Berry and Union streets; Hon. Chas. McCulloch, and Charles McDougall, West Wayne street, Mrs. Rosina Thain, 273 West Jefferson street; August Detzer, West Wayne street, and that of Charles Shidel. The burglars were discovered in each case before their purpose was accomplished.

TWO ACCIDENTS.

Horace Bernard and Joseph Auth Seriously Injured.

Horace Bernard lies at his home suffering great pain from injuries received while employed at B. W. Skelton's cracker and candy factory. He was standing near one of the ovens when the long steel rake used in drawing crackers from the oven, fell from its support and struck a fly wheel. The force from the wheel caused the rake to revolve and in its descent it struck Bernard over the right eye, tearing an ugly gash.

Joseph Auth, of Marion township, and a brother of Henry Auth, of John Christen's ale house, narrowly escaped being crushed to death last Tuesday. He was felling a tree in the forest on his farm when the growth took an unexpected turn and fell, one of the limbs striking him on the head and crushing him to the earth. His scalp was torn from the bone and the flesh of his face was literally scraped off.

Jennie E Wilson, of South Wayne, fell down stairs Saturday and fractured both bones of her right leg. Dr. Younge reduced the fracture.

Is Life Worth Living?

That depends upon the Liver. If the Liver is inactive the whole system is out of order—the breath is bad, digestion poor, head dull or aching, energy and hopefulness gone, the spirit is depressed, a heavy weight exists after eating, with general despondency and the blues. The Liver is the housekeeper of the health, and a harmless, simple remedy that acts like Nature, does not constipate afterwards or require constant taking, does not interfere with business or pleasure during its use, makes Simmons Liver Regulator a medical perfection.

THE first number of Gart Shober's paper, the Monday Morning Times, was issued today. It gives Sunday's news, local and telegraph, and is intended to fill a field that has not been occupied in this city for some months past—a Monday morning newspaper. Mr. Shober is one of the best newspaper writers in this city. For a number of years he was city editor on the different Fort Wayne papers. He has "a nose for news and knows what news is," and is consequently well qualified to give his readers a bright, spicy, interesting local newspaper. The first issue shows his ability in this direction and is a credit to its editor and proprietor.

THE Christian Secretary commenting on church unity says the world never needed preachers with a mission more than it does today. In spite of all discouragement there never was a grander time to preach the gospel. The time has come for the ministry to rise to the dignity of the prophets and apostles. The world needs preachers today who have a message and who are not afraid to utter it. It may be all well enough to know who Melchisedec was, and where Cain got his wife from, but it is of much more consequence to tell men their need of a savior. The preacher who can deal with the practical problems of everyday life in the spirit of the master is the preacher today

ENGLAND INTERESTED.

England is interested in the presidential question in this country. The London Spectator says

While dealing with the subject of the presidential election we cannot refrain from a word or two in deprecations of the annoyance often shown by Americans of all parties at the interest excited in England by the presidential elections. How can we not be excited at what is for us incomparably the most interesting event that can take place in external politics? There is no European succession which is of half the importance to us. Who succeeds President Harrison is a matter far nearer to the people of England than the succession to the thrones of Germany or Italy, Austria or Russia. We do not want to interfere, but in the case of so near a relation we cannot help desiring to know how things are going to be settled. If the people of America would only believe it, the interest felt in the election in England is in no sense selfish. We do not want, as some of them imagine, to see a president elected who will knuckle down to England. The people of this country, for all their shyness and consequent appearance of churlishness, are sincerely proud of America and genuinely anxious that she should choose well when she chooses her chief magistrate. They feel that the credit of the whole Anglo-Saxon kin is involved in the choice, and are eager that the greatest post to which any English speaking men can be elected should be worthily filled

PROPOSITION ACCEPTED.

The Wayne Club Will Have Its Own Club House—Plans Accepted.

At a meeting of the members of the Wayne club last Saturday evening F. A. Randall submitted his proposition to build a club house, which, after due deliberation, was accepted. Mr. Randall's proposition is this: The building is to cost $11,000, and this, together with a site on Harrison street between Wayne and Berry streets, Mr. Randall offers to sell to the club for $23,000, $3,000 to be paid May 1, $3,000 June 1, and $1,000 a year after that at 7 per cent interest. The plans submitted by C. E. Kendrick were approved. The building will be handsome with arrangements suitable for the purposes intended. The matter of purchase power to close contract and perfect arrangements was referred to the governing board, comprising R. T. McDonald, Brainard Rorison, Hon. J. B. White, Louis Fox, Hon. R. C. Bell, F. M. Smith, S. M. Foster, Frank Fee, Dr. W. W. Mungen, J. T. Leary, Col. C. A. Zollinger and Col. J. L. White.

The membership subscription of the Wayne club amounts to $7,400. At the meeting Saturday evening R. T. McDonald guaranteed the $2,600 necessary to make up the $10,000, providing it could not be raised otherwise.

BLAINE AGAINST NEVINS.

The Mother-in-Law of the Divorced Pair.

The lady wearing a bonnet is the wife of the secretary of state, Mrs. James G. Blaine; the one without a bonnet is Mrs. Nevins, mother of Mrs. Mary Nevins Blaine, who has succeeded in procuring a divorce from her husband, James G. Blaine, jr. A family difficulty, public interest in which was on the decline, has become a subject of national interest and gossip now that no less a man than Secretary Blaine undertakes to show that his youngest son was the unsuspecting victim of woman's wiles when, at an early age, he undertook the responsibilities of a husband. Mr Blaine has a large contract on his hands, and it is presumed that his wife has unlimited confidence in his powers to convince. The other mother-in-law is an earnest and fluent champion of her daughter's case. She was the daughter of Governor Medary, of Ohio, and when about sixteen was riding with an admirer. While crossing a deep stream her horse lay down and she would have been drowned but for the efforts of her champion. He was Colonel Nevins, who afterward became her husband.

Mrs. Blaine, jr., was interviewed Saturday by a New York newspaper reporter. She says she has made no plans for the future and no idea what she will do. But she is determined that she will make a livelihood for herself and her boy. Before she went to Dakota in January she said she might go back on the stage if her lameness did not interfere. Daniel Frohman had told her that if she was able to do so, he was willing to carry out the old contract between them. She also considered the advisability of taking up writing, for which she has more than an ordinary talent.

A surprise party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wash McNamara, of East Williams street, Saturday evening, was a social event that has not had a parallel on the south side for some time. THE NORTH LANDS.

Rev. Young Tells of His Missionary Experience Among the Indians.

Rev. Edgerton R. Young, who for over twenty years has been engaged in missionary work among the Indians in the northern part of British America, delivered three addresses in this city yesterday, speaking in the morning and evening at the First Presbyterian church and in the afternoon at the city Y. M. C. A.

Crowded audiences greeted him at each service. The story of his life and missionary work among the tribes of Indians who inhabit that part of the continent was told in a way that charmed his hearers with his eloquent and interesting descriptive powers. He is one of the most pleasing missionary talkers in the country, and has spoken during the last year to crowded audiences in England and America, and is doing grand work in the way of enlisting help for the tawny people among whom he has spent so much of his life

In 1868 Dr. Young, then a young man, left home with his wife to enter upon missionary work among the Indians of the far north. He was sent to tell these Pagan and idolatrous people the simple story of the cross and to win them to Christ. In this work he was remarkably successful and today thousands of these northern Indians have been converted to Christianity as a result of his heroic and self-sacrificing work. Now he is engaged in pleading their cause, during a vacation, to the people who are already blessed with Christian homes, and his interesting discourses of yesterday prove that he is as successful in that as he is in his missionary work.

His experiences among the Indians and his manner of presenting the gospel to them were told by the speaker, and as he proceeded he wove into his discourses many interesting incidents in his own life among these Indian tribes. His territory embraced a large extent of country, equal to four or five of our states. His trips during winter were made over the frozen snow with sleds and dogs and during the summer with birch canoes, which, with Indian guides, he paddled among the rivers and lakes of that northern land. In this way he visited many Indian tribes, preaching the gospel and placing the Bible in their homes.

He told of many of the remarkable conversions he had made. The Indians, he said, who worshipped the Great Spirit in stumps and stones, were difficult to teach the proper comprehension of God, but as the religion of Christ was presented to their minds in a practical way many of them were finally led to understand and accept it and as a result their lives and their homes were made happier. To follow Dr. Young in any one of his discourses would require the stenographer's pencil, and we can only thus briefly allude in a general way to the subject matter of his talk. His stories, taken from real life, were grand and his discourses teemed with interest.

Dr. Young will lecture this evening at the Baptist Tabernacle, and tomorrow evening at the Second Presbyterian church. Both meetings are under the auspices of the local union of the society of Christian Endeavor of Fort Wayne.

A Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

Messrs Cage and Sherman, of Alexander, Texas, write us regarding a remarkable cure of rheumatism there as follows. We sold her a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and she was completely cured by its use. We refer any one to her to verify this statement." 50 cent bottles for sale by druggists.

La Grippe Successfully Treated.

"I have just recovered from a second attack of the grip this year," says Mr. Jas. O. Jones, publisher of the Leader, Mexia, Texas. "In the latter case I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and I think with considerable success, only being in bed a little over two days, against ten days for the first attack. The second attack I am satisfied would have been equally as bad as the first but for the use of this remedy, as I had to go to bed in about six hours after being 'struck' with it, while in the first case I was able to attend to business about two days before getting down.'" 50 cent bottles for sale by druggists

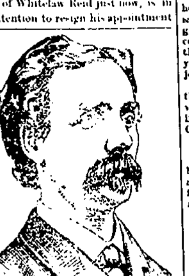
WHITELAW REID

May be the Running Mate of President Harrison.

The chief interest attaching to the name of Whitelaw Reid just now, is in his intention to resign his appointment as minister to France that he might be home during the presidential campaign, and in the probability that his name will appear on the republican ticket as candidate for the vice presidency. Mr. Morton, it is stated, will not be a candidate again under any circumstances, and the prophecy is that the ticket will be, "Harrison and Reid." Reid was born at Xenia, Ohio, in 1837. He is a graduate of Miami University. His articles as Washington correspondent of a Cincinnati newspaper attracted attention when he was a very young man, and during the war he earned widespread reputation by his descriptions of various battles. In 1865 he went to New York to join the staff of the Tribune. On the death of Horace Greeley he succeeded him as editor and proprietor of that journal. Mr. Reid married the daughter of a millionaire, and is himself numbered with the millionaires. The few books from his pen are of a semi-journalistic character.



MASONIC TEMPLE.

The Famous Comedy "Jane" Tonight—Coming Attractions.

The comedy event of the season will be the production of Charles Frohman's famous comedy success, "Jane," at the Temple this evening. This is the funny comedy which took New York and London by storm, and which ran over 100 nights at the Madison Square theater. For pure comedy it is said to rank with Wilkinson's Widows. The plot of the play is so ridiculously funny that the audience is kept in constant laughter. "Jane" will be presented with an excellent cast of characters

"The Soudan," which is replete with stage mechanism, realism and interest, comes to the Temple Thursday night. "The Soudan" is a military melodrama written by Henry Pettit and Augustus Harris, and was originally produced at Drury Lane theater, London, where it had a remarkable run of a year and a half

J. C. Stewart's reconstructed comedy, "The Two Johns," will be presented at the Temple, Friday, March 11. The piece is described as a parody on "The Comedy of Errors."

Miss Margaret Mather will make her first appearance in this city Tuesday, March 15, appearing in a double comedy bill, "Nancy Oldfield" and "The Love Chase."

Could Improve on the Advice.

He might have been forty five or fifty years old, and was apparently in comfortable circumstances. He was well dressed, and as he sat in front of the big fire at the club he puffed meditatively at a cigar. The young man sitting near him was scowling at the fire as he smoked his cigar.

"Just on the threshold of your literary career," said the old gentleman at last interrogatively.

The young man acquiesced with a movement of his head.

"You have a hard struggle ahead of you," said the old man. "I know what it is. It takes a long time to secure recognition."

The young man admitted the truth of the assertion by another nod.

"It requires patience, perseverance and constant improvement," continued the old man complacently. "One mustn't get discouraged. I was almost ready to give up once or twice, but I kept right on, and now I can sell anything I write at a good price. And let me give you another piece of advice: Always read your stories over in print. There is nothing like it for improving a man's style. He sees the flaws in print when he would overlook them in manuscript."

The young man took his cigar out of his mouth and looked at the other curiously.

"That's your advice, is it?" he asked at last.

"It is."

"It's the best you can give, I suppose?"

"Why, yes. I don't think of anything in a general way that's more important."

"Well, from my limited experience I can improve on it mightily."

"How?"

"By prefixing it with 'First get your story in print.'"—Chicago Tribune.

Excusable.

"Talk about mean men. I've read a good deal about them: but the meanest man is the fellow who steals my jokes without credit!" exclaimed the humorist to the editor.

"Well, rather," said the editor; "but you must remember that the man who would steal your jokes must be exceedingly hard up: and, besides, there is no credit in it, one way or another."—Boston Post.

A Fellow Feeling.

Grumbling Consumer (at gas company's office)—Between footpads and gas bills a man's life is hardly worth living any more.

From Bad to Worse.

A lady whose Christian name was Jane and whose little daughter was named after her engaged a housekeeper who was also a Jane.

Thinking that three Janes in one household might occasion confusion, the lady said to the newcomer, who was a tall, angular woman, with a rigid air and an uncompromising cast of countenance, "I think, Jane, it will be better for me to call you by your last name, if you have no objection."

"No'm, I have no objections," answered the housekeeper, standing stiffly erect, valise in hand. "Call me 'Darling,' ma'am, if you prefer. That's my name!"—Youth's Companion

They Were Thumpers.

Two men met and adjourned to a neighboring saloon to talk over old acquaintance. In answer to inquiries as to the different members of his family, one man said:

"My eldest girl thumps the piano."

"And her sister?"

"Oh, she thumps the washboard."

"But your wife?"

"She thumps me."—Detroit Free Press.

A Startler.

Doctor—If your husband's hiccoughs don't stop very soon, madam, he'll be a dead man. There is only one thing to be done. He must be startled out of them. Can you suggest any way?

Anxious Wife (thoughtfully)—I might tell him that I had decided not to order that new silk dress.—Cloak Review.

About Ajax.

"Father," asked Tommy, "why did Ajax defy the lightning?"

"Because, my son, Ajax was a French duelist, and the lightning was known to miss 5,000 times where it hit once. Moreover, it was 600 miles away, and wasn't lightning at the time. Ajax knew whom to defy."—Texas Siftings.

He Was a Little Late.

"That was quite a little joke of mine," he said, with enthusiasm, after he had exerted himself with a bon mot. "Did you see it?"

"Oh, yes," she answered wearily, "I saw it last week in a newspaper."—Washington Star.

A Poor Beginning.

Young Nobles (to his future mamma-in-law)—Photograph of you here. Really you must have been good looking when you were young—I—I—mean you must have been—ahem—quite young when you were good looking.—Drake's Magazine.

At the Head.

Excellence is after all a matter of comparison. A boy of six years, who attends a private school where prizes are given on all sorts of provocations, but who as yet had never earned a prize, came home one afternoon and exhibited proudly one of these rewards of merit.

"Good!" said his mother, "but how did you get it?"

"I was first in natural history," said the boy.

"Natural history at your age! How did it happen?"

"Oh, they asked me how many legs a horse had."

"And what did you say?"

"I said five."

"But a horse hasn't five legs, child."

"I know it, but all the other fellows said six!"—Youth's Companion.

Mr. S. G. Derry

Of Providence, R. I.,

Widely known as proprietor of Derry's Waterproof Harness Oil, tells below of his terrible sufferings from Eczema and his cure by

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla

"Gentlemen: Fifteen years ago I had an attack of inflammatory rheumatism, which was followed by eczema or salt rheum, breaking out on my right leg. The humor spread all over my legs, back and arms,

A Foul Mass of Sores, swollen and itching terribly, causing intense pain if the skin was broken by scratching, and discharging constantly. It is impossible to describe my suffering in those years of agony and torture. I spent in futile efforts to get well, and was discouraged and ready to die. At this time I was unable to lie down in bed, had to sit up all the time, and was unable to walk without crutches. I had to hold my arms away from my body, and had to have my arms, back and legs bandaged by my faithful wife twice a day.

Thousands of Dollars

"Finally a friend who was visiting at our house, urged me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I began by taking half a teaspoonful. My

Stomach Was All Out of Order

But the medicine soon corrected this, and in six weeks I could see a change in the condition of the humor which nearly covered my body. It was driven to the surface by the Sarsaparilla, the sores soon healed, and the scales fell off. I was soon able to give up bandages and crutches, and a happy man I was. I had been taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for seven months; and since that time, nearly two years, I have worn no bandages whatever and my legs and arms are sound and well.

The Delight

of myself and wife at my recovery it is impossible to tell. To all my business friends in Boston and over the country, I recommend from personal experience." S. G. DERRY, 46 Bradford street, Providence, R. I.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

If you are Bilious, take Hood's Pills.

AT BEDTIME I TAKE A PLEASANT HERB DRINK

What the Late Visitors to Our City Say of the Mahoning Road—Local and Personal.

The following from Findlay appeared as a special in yesterday's Toledo Bee: Contractor C. G. Patterson, of New York city, and Col Rosser, general superintendent of the Findlay, Fort Wayne and Western road, visited the city of Fort Wayne, Ind., this week, in the interest of the new trunk line. They were warmly received by the leading citizens of that city, who are anxious to secure another trunk line outlet to the east. They claim Fort Wayne people will do all they possibly can to encourage the building of the new road. This company is ballasting the new track recently laid west of the Clover Leaf, and as soon as the weather settles expect to reach the Cincinnati, Jackson and Michigan, which will give them another outlet to Toledo. A well-known Toledo boy, Mr. Wilbur Rogers, occupies the responsible position of general passenger and freight agent for the new line. He has many friends throughout the city and along the line.

Indications are that this year more new railroads will be built in West Virginia than any state in the Union. A number of new roads are to be built, and a much larger number of extensions and branches of existing roads.

Henry Schoppman, the Pittsburg boiler maker, is very ill. Yesterday his condition was regarded critical, but during the night a favorable change took place and this morning his friends feel that the crisis is passed and he will recover.

The shops which the Pennsylvania company propose to erect at Alliance, Ohio, are intended only for repair work. When completed they will relieve the shops at this city of much of the repair work now sent here from the eastern branches of the system.

Notices of the funeral of Mrs. Gertrude Forbing, which takes place at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, were posted in the Pittsburg machine shop this morning. The deceased was the mother of Mrs. J. H. Franke, whose husband is one of the most popular machinists the shop. Many of the shopmen will attend the services.

The speakers from abroad were Clarence J. Hicks, secretary international committe, Y. M. C. A., of New York; Wm. Cook, of Chicago, E. E. Stacy, of Indianapolis, state secretary.

Stuart Brothers, of Lafayette, attorneys for the Wabash railroad have filed a complaint with Joseph Larimer, clerk of Miami county, against the Lake Erie and Western Railroad company. It is claimed the Lake Erie and Western owes the Wabash railroad $7,098.27, on account, which should have been paid January 19, 1888. Six per cent. interest on the amount from that time is asked. The amount of the suit is placed at $10,000. The case will be brought up on the 11th of this month for a hearing.

According to the Chicago Times one of the greatest items of expense in the Western Passenger association is the cost of arbitrating appeals from rulings by Chairman Finley. It seems as if there was some road to appeal every trivial matter to arbitration, and the cost of these cases runs into many thousands of dollars. Now the Wisconsin Central says that the parties interested in appeals should pay the expense, and declines for its part to assist in paying bills for other roads. This is a surprise to some of the belligerent element, and there is a lively dispute over the question.

A rumor was in circulation about the shops and south depots this morning that a prominent employe of the Pennsylvania company (no matter who) had died suddenly last evening. It spread rapidly and by 9 o'clock was the absorbing theme of conversation among the shopmen. The Sentinel man heard it from a dozen different persons. The reporter went into the store room to get a confirmation of the rumor from Mr. Enoch Cox, who was conversing with an elderly gentleman. Replying to our inquiry, Mr. Cox said: "Here is the deceased, you can interview him on the subject," and the corpse and the reporter shook hands.

The Society Leader Concluded After All That She Wouldn't Wait.

Little Miss D'Avnoo—Mamma will be down soon, an she said I might come in an 'muse you if I'd promise not to ask any 'pertinent questions. What do you wear nose glasses for?

Society Leader—I am nearsighted, my dear.

Little Miss D'Avnoo—I know, but mamma is nearsighted, too, and she carries a lorgnette. Mamma likes a lorgnette because it shows off her pretty hands. Mamma has awful pretty hands. Some folks hasn't. Is your house as nice as ours?

Society Leader—Our house is an older style, much older. My father built it.

Little Miss D'Avnoo—Our second maid's father used to build houses too. He fell off a scaffold and got killed. Wasn't it awful? That happened in Europe. We didn't go to Europe last year. Mamma said it had got so common she'd stay here, 'cause she didn't want to get mixed up with the nobodies. We went to Saratoga and Newport and such places. Did you?

Society Leader—No. We went to Europe. That is a lovely picture above your head.

Little Miss D'Avnoo—Yes. We haven't many pictures, but every one is pretty. Papa says some folks buy pictures just on spec'lation, an get a whole lot, ever so many, an then when the artists is all dead, they make money out of the graveyard mold, 'cause the pictures go up. He says some houses look like junkshops, an the families sits around hoping the artists will die. How many pictures have you?

Society Leader—A great many.

Little Miss D'Avnoo—We haven't but a few, 'cause ours is only to look at. Is that your carriage out there?

Society Leader—Yes, it is waiting.

Little Miss D'Avnoo—I didn't know but it was one of ours. We have so many I can't keep track of 'em. Papa is awfully fond of horses, and has different horses for every carriage. He says people who keep only one pair do it out of economy—to save livery bills and street car fare, you know. Have you many horses?

Society Leader—Just now we have but two. That is all we need.

Little Miss D'Avnoo—Mamma is taking a good while, but she couldn't help it. She was having a new reception dress fitted, 'cause she tore her last new one the first time she wore it. She went to a reception at some one's named Perkins—some butler's I guess—an she caught her dress in a splinter of an old chair. She said the chair had been mended, and she was awful mad. She said folks what had broken chairs around wasn't respectable, 'cause it showed they spent so much for the chairs in the first place they couldn't afford to buy new ones, and papa said there was a good deal of style in this city that wouldn't count for much if it wasn't for the patching. There goes Perkins. Perkins is our butler. Perkins isn't his real name, but we call all our butlers Perkins. Do you?

Society Leader—No.

Little Miss D'Avnoo—Why not?

Society Leader—Because our name is Perkins. Tell your mother I couldn't wait.—New York Weekly.

Harvard Wisdom.

He had been a member of the Harvard Glee club, and after five years in the west had returned to Boston with a western friend. One evening he had been invited to sing, and after several songs the western friend spoke to the lady next to him.

"I didn't know Harvey could do that," he said, almost with a sigh.

"Why," she asked in surprise, "didn't he ever sing in the west?"

"He may have before he struck our place. I reckon he did, but he never did there."

"That was strange," she remarked. "I wonder why he didn't?"

"I don't know," and Harvey began another song, "unless it was that we had a very active vigilance committee that knew its business."—Detroit Free Press.

Short-sighted

—the woman who doesn't use Pearline, the woman who fails to have her servant use Pearline. She fails to see what is good for her; she fails to have what is best for her.

Without Pearline, washing and cleaning is drudgery and toil, and wear and tear, and rub, rub, rub. With it, there is no hard work, and no harm to the finest things; there is little or no rubbing. Use Pearline, and rest from your labor; the rest of your labor—the hardest part—is done by Pearline.

Fore-sight

The woman has fore-sight who refuses the imitations of Pearline offered by peddlers and unscrupulous grocers, which they claim to be "same as Pearline," or "as good as Pearline." IT'S FALSE. Besides, Pearline is never peddled.

DR. W. D. REA,

RENOWNED

Surgeon Specialist

—AND—

Staff Physician

—TO THE—

SOUTHERN

Medical and Sergical Institute

520 Fifth Street, Louisville, Ky.,

Will be at Fort Wayne at the Randall Hotel, March 21 and 22, Monday and Tuesday, returning every 28 days for another year.

CONSULTATION :-: FREE.

The Southern Medical and Sergical Institute was organized by Drs. Rea and Walter and full staff of specialists, covering every branch of surgery and medicine. It has treated more patients than any institution in the west and south. See circulars for particulars, as many patients could be treated at home after one treatment. Treats all diseases of the Eye, Ear, nose, throat and lungs. CURES CATARRH IN ALL FORMS, diseases peculiar to women, falling of the womb, and displacements of the womb. Will give $100 for a case that cannot be cured in from one to four treatments.

Dr. Rea will bring with him all his portable Instruments and Apparatuses, and come prepared and will take the time to perform any surgical operation, no matter how difficult; he will bring with him Maps and Charts, Physiological and Pathological showing the different diseases, taken from photographs, the finest set in the state. He will bring with him his electrical apparatus for examining the throat, nose and rectum. It is a small incandescent electric light, is the most wonderful discovery of the age, the only one in use in the state. Just imagine putting an electric light down your throat and nose making a brilliant light, and many other instruments that he could not bring. There is a class of sufferers that he wishes this to reach, also that can be cured with one or two treatments, and below he will name over those diseases which he cures by electricity. There is no pain or soreness, no stopping business or interference whatever from regular habits, and all parties suffering from the following diseases should come and be treated, as he will take plenty of time for each case. Piles—bleeding, itching or external prolapus of Rectum—in any form he guarantees to cure with one or two treatments.

DISEASES OF THE EYE.

Granulated sore eyes, conjunctivities, opthalmia, weak, watery eyes, ulcers of the cornea, opacity of cornea, pannus growth over sight, cataract and all diseases of the eye cured. We never operate where a cure can possibly be effected otherwise, but when necessary we claim to have no superiors. Our treatment is painless and the effects are immediate. We come fully prepared for examination and operations. We refer you to some of the most remarkable cases of restoring sight ever made in the world.

Fissure, Fistula or Ulcers cured by our electrical treatment.

Stricture of the Urethra, one or two treatments by electricity; no pain or soreness. Hypertrophic catarrh of the nose.

Polypus tumors of the nose, ear or rectum removed at one treatment.

Irritation of bladder and kidneys, one treatment, also female diseases, such as falling of the womb, displacements, forward or backward, replaced; permanent cures.

Sterility.—There are a great many women suffering from this, whites or leucorrhea or some other diseases which can be relieved and cured by one treatment.

Ladies having "superfluous hair" on their face we remove them permanently by one treatment. Blotches, moles, etc., likewise cancers, tumors, warts, cured by one treatment.

Varicocele, hydrocele cured. Rupture cured. Young men suffering from errors should call one or two treatments will restore them.

Deafness.—There are many cases that can be easily restored. Deformities, club feet, curvature of spine, all properly treated.

Lung Trouble.—Many cases are curable that have not gotten too far. Will say to physicians of Fort Wayne and county: if you have a patient or relative you wish examined, bring them in. I have no secrets in my practice and will take pleasure in explaining every mode of treatment necessary. Will show them improvements in advanced surgery and medicine. Patients coming from a long distance and staying night should call as soon as arrived, and many can go home well and never have to come back again.

Dr. Rea will undertake no incurable case and he will tell you what chances, if any, to be cured.

Remember the date. Send this to your sick neighbor or distant relative. Do not let it be said of you, like the old adage, that "Man's inhumanity to man has made millions suffer and mourn."

Each patient can see the doctor privately. Call as early as possible, as his room will be crowded.

Consultation free. Address,

The Saturday's issue of the Indianapolis News says: "A very pretty story comes to light from Fort Wayne this week of a young society lady of that city who has recently gone abroad, for the purpose, as it was given out, to follow the pursuits of travel and pleasure. It now transpires that she has gone to Belfast Ireland, for the purpose of being married to a gentleman engaged in business in that city. For many months the Irish gentleman sought an opportunity of crossing to this side, but chance prevented him from doing so. The young lady looked longingly for his coming, and cast her eyes wistfully over the seas. Not to be daunted by such a trivial matter as a few thousand miles, and a broad ocean to cross, she determined to follow the example of Mohammed and go to the mountain. She engaged passage on one of the Cunard steamers which left here about three weeks ago, and alone, but with a buoyant and hopeful heart, she endured the perils of the sea for the man she loves. The ceremony will be performed very soon. The name of the young lady is given as Miss Wells, one of the best known and most popular belles of that city.

That portion of the Clinton street sidewalk lying between the river bridge and League park is badly wrecked as a result of being put to the use of a highway. A heavily loaded wagon was hauled over it, and if the man who is at the bottom of the act could be apprehended life would not be pleasant to him for some days to come.

The spring course of Star entertainments at the city department of the Y. M. C. A. is one of the finest that has ever been in our city, comprising the following brilliant talent: Hon. The property holders on Gay street will probably petition the city council for a pavement on that thoroughfare in the near future. They have already had several conferences upon the subject with their councilmen, who tell them that their efforts in that direction would be unavailing so far as this season is concerned but next year they may accomplish their object. It is proposed to pave Gay street from Creighton avenue to Lewis street, and Wallace street from Hanna to Gay, a distance of three blocks, making a continuous pavement from the engine house to the extreme south eastern portion of the city.

WHAT will Stanley Africanus say to the news that Emin Pasha claims to have discovered the real and only Simon-pure sources of the Nile? There is a touch of bitterness in Emin's triumphant announcement, as much as to imply, "Oh, yes; you thought a bug-hunter couldn't find sources! But here they are, and all the others are spurious." Having thus set his trademark at the springs of ancient Nile, Emin is getting warlike, and talks of engaging the Mahdi of the moment in battle. But 'twere well to be prudent, for the Mahdi is a bad man with a bad eye, and he and his have already brought more than one white exploring expedition to grief.
